

The Barn at Auld Farm Inn

A 150-year-old dairy barn, thoughtfully restored — room to celebrate, your way.

Exposed beams, wide plank floors and soft natural light make a setting that looks just as good dressed up as it does kept simple. It sits minutes from the Village of Baddeck and the start of the Cabot Trail, with beds waiting across the yard when the night runs long.

STAY ON THE FARM

Auld Farm Inn sits on the same property: four guest rooms sleeping up to eleven, plus a farm camper that sleeps four. Couples often take the Inn for the Friday and Saturday, which turns a one-day booking into a proper weekend.

WHEN WE CAN HOST

Mid-August through late October is our main season. May to early August works too — we simply plan around the family of barn swallows who nest with us each spring.

GOOD TO KNOW

Bar — you arrange your own liquor permit and event insurance.

Food — bring the caterer you like. We are happy to work with anyone, and we keep the final say on how and where the barn is used.

House rules — no smoking in or near the building, two designated non-drinking hosts on the day, the space left tidy, and music wound down by midnight out of respect for our neighbours.

HOW WE WORK

Hosting can feel overwhelming; we try to make it manageable. Think of us less as a rental space and more as good neighbours who want your gathering to go well.
